

"Mother" Jones Criticizes the Women and Capital

"Jesus Too Busy to Look After Women Who Bother Him"

"Mother" Jones Tells Audience That Women Should Study Economics and Quit Worrying the Lord; She Praises Pancho Villa and Says Americans Are to Blame if Mexicans Take Their Jobs.

"I F WOMEN would study economics instead of continually bothering Jesus to save them, women would be better, the labor situation would be clarified, and in time there would be a practical cessation of labor strikes." So declared "Mother" Jones Friday night to an audience composed of eight women, about 145 Americans, 25 Mexicans and one city detective. The place was the Fraternal brotherhood hall, corner of Oregon and Overland.

"Jesus is too busy to look after the woman who is continually bothering him to save her," declared "Mother" Jones. "Jesus was once named as being hanged, if he would come now he would be hanged again."

"And I want to tell you," this remark she addressed to the men, "a man is a fool to tell a woman not to do anything because that is the very thing that she is going to do."

Eighty-one years of age, her hair silvery white, beneath which is a face void of wrinkles and when in repose the expression of it softened and venerable, "Mother" Jones is all the more impressive, having every appearance of being the most modest person in existence. J. W. Brown, who is traveling with her, claiming that she is the "mother" of 60,000, says all coal miners, says that "Mother" Jones has more sons than any other woman in the United States.

Friday night, "Mother" Jones was wearing an old fashioned brocaded silk skirt, a black silk jacket. Around her neck was a string of black jet beads. A lace jabot was pinned at the neck of the waist. The "talk" was the language of the working class, she said, and she had not gone to any university.

World Chase Capitalists from Mexico. Capitalism, capitalists, the militia and governors of different states, she had known them and named them in the coal mining districts and in prisons, was the subject of her address. As for the capitalists, "Mother" Jones thought that the persons who go to the Juarez races ought to give the nomination they spend to the rebels so they could purchase ammunition to chase the capitalists out of Mexico. She had nothing good to say about the militia, "murderers," she said, "they rob the women and the rebels." The governors she dismissed by declaring that few of them had any honor, yet she was not afraid of the governor of Colorado.

Prisoners. Villa, she also declared, would bring profits from the downtrodden working class and then go to church on Sunday and tell Jesus "what fine robbers they were." Pancho Villa and the rebels, "Mother" Jones praised. She thought there ought to be men in the United States like Villa who have been here "Mother" Jones went over to Juarez and save Gen. Eugenio Aguirre.
